A Television Fable

The saga of the San Diego Padres baseball team has all the elements of a 90-minute television special. But baseball doesn't lend itself well to the performing arts ("Damn Yankee", a baseball musical is an exception) so the script has to be adjusted to a circus background. It goes like this:

Sweet, lovable Buzzie Bavasi operates a tottering circus. He is indentured to a wealthy plantation owner, C. Arnholt Smith. Smith has been impressed with Buzzie from years earlier and had bought a big top circus at Buzzie's urgings and put Buzzie in charge of it. Smith, a generous man, had been overcome by Buzzie's great capabilities and gentle nature. So, in addition to a salary, he gave Buzzie a piece of the action.

But hard times had befallen the plantation. An overlong drought and an invasion of locusts had failed the crops. Ecologists had long since banned DDT, the only pesticide that could stop the invasion of the locusts. It had been taken off the market by government edict. The cash flow needed for Smith's various operations was being dried up by the drought.

With tears in his eyes, Smith told his long-time buddy Buzzie that the circus would have to be sold. "But find a buyer you like and stay with the circus," was his advice to Buzzie.

Buzzie was bulwarked by a fine, young, handsome, capable loyal sideshow executives plus performing artists and a trained aide—his own son, Peter. There was also a sizeable group of animals. The show could go on a while until a buyer was found.

But no buyers came and it appeared certain that the circus, as well as the plantation, would go to the tax collectors.

But wait! The government not only wanted the plantation for a military training base but wanted the circus as part of the deal to provide recreation for the trainees.

A couple of reporters learned that it was a CIA plot. Columnist J. Murphy and commentator A. Couppee revealed in a series of exclusives that the land deal was a diversionary tactic. What they wanted was the circus which was to be moved to Washington where congressmen would become performers. U.S. Senators would fulfill lifelong ambitions to become clowns. U.S. Representatives would operate in the sideshow tents and be shills for the snake charmers. Buzzie and his staff would be fired and by Presidential order they would be put in public housing and made eligible for public relief.

The two newsmen created such a furore that even the beloved mayor, a youthful executive named P. Wilson, jumped into the action and offered to pit his City Council against the somewhat super-secret CIA.

Citizens, too, became aroused—even those who had not seen a circus since they were kids. A hue and cry followed.

CIA had been involved in a prior miscalculation—the Bay of Pigs. Their image couldn't stand another humiliation, so they dropped the idea. It is listed in their secret archives as the Bay of Padres. The circus was temporarily safe but still broke.

Then came a miracle! Oil was discovered on the plantation by a woman geologist named Marg Everett and her laboratory director, N. Pappiano. The circus was saved! In anticipation of the windfall of funds Buzzie acquired several star high-wire artists; a man who is shot out of a cannon to a net 90 feet away; a trapeze act, and the world's largest gorilla. Happiness was again with the circus folk and thousands of potential fans.

But wait! A question had been raised by the National Oil League. They found samples of the Everett-Pappiano oil discovery to be only greasy water—not worth pumping. The National Oil League which controls all American oil explorations refused to certify the find. Despair again came to the circus folk and the fans, the reporters and the mayor. The National Oil League, in a burst of pity and generosity (which had previously been hidden), offered to take over the circus for experimentation—or something, rather than see it disbanded. This certainly was the low spot in the existence of the circus and its beloved father-son management team, Buzzie and Peter.

There was great hand wringing throughout the land. There was great sadness beneath the big top. There was misery within the sideshow and carnival tents. Again all appeared to be lost.

But wait! Who is that person out in the midway whistling "Turkey in the Straw" amid all this adversity? It's that country boy from Chicago. Ray Kroc had been a circus buff all his life—ever since he met Mr. Barnum and Mr. Bailey. He had heard the moaning and groaning through the thin walls of the big top. "Hey," he said to Army Smith who had come to say goodbye to Lucy the Snakecharmer whom he secretly admired, "why don't you let me buy this circus? I always dreamed of having my own circus so I could eat all the cotton candy and peanuts I wanted."

He rifled through a stack of currency—a stack big enough to make a most pleasant sound. Army was impressed. As negotiations progressed, it developed that Al wasn't a country bumpkin at all—but a young handsome merchant prince of 71.

He had enough money to buy every circus in the circuit, if he wanted. But more importantly, he had the enthusiastic character of a full-fledged fan. He talked enthusiastically about putting more peanuts in bags fans would buy. He talked of giving fans a bigger schooner of beer and making a buddy of him. He envisioned more animal and trapeze acts, and a show with performers that would help mold the moral character of youngsters who would attend big top performances.

And now, fans who had been emotionally oscillated from peak to valley and back again over the months, all the while yelling "Save Our Big Top", found they were part of the new action. They felt they had had a vital part in saving the circus for themselves as well as for Buzzie and Peter. They turned out in great numbers as they attended show after show. They absorbed the boyish enthusiasm of Al Kroc, the nation's Num-

San Diego Hosts Support Seminar

The 19th Annual Conference of the California District Attorney's Family Support Division. The conference will cover 36 separate problems in the collection of court-ordered child support as well as paternity investigations, welfare fraud investigations and the interrelations of federal funds to child support.

SV Woman Struck By Three Cars

A Spring Valley woman was run down and seriously injured Monday night on Sweetwater Road as she was crossing the boulevard, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Mrs. Frances M. Kreinberg, 66, of 2515 Sweetwater rd., was struck down by an automobile at 6:55 p.m. as she was attempting to cross the street just south of Valencia.

The first car which hit her did not stop, the patrol said, and while she was lying in the middle of the road, she was struck twice more by cars driven by Keith Dishman, 17, and Clyde W. O'Quinn, 57, both of San Diego.

Mrs. Kreinberg was not in a crosswalk, the patrol said. There was no description of the first car which hit the woman and failed to stop.

805 Access Open Tues.

Direct access to northbound I-805 from westbound Highway 94 began Tuesday when a ramp was opened between the two freeways.

Two new exits from 805 were also opened, according to Jacob Dekema, district director for Caltrans, the state department of transportation. The ramps are at Home Avenue and Route 15 north.

Other connections on 805 will not be opened until March.

On eastbound 94, the 47th street off-ramp has been closed for about three weeks to allow widening of 94 between 47th and 805.

Rotary Clubs to Fund Study Abroad Awards

To help increase international understanding, the 38 Rotary clubs in San Diego and Imperial counties are receiving applications from men and women for four types of Rotary International Foundation, all-expenses-paid, educational awards for study abroad during the school year 1975-76.

Rotary District Governor O. Doyle Dannenberg, of Escondido, said the awards include graduate fellowships, for those with a bachelor's degree or equivalent; undergraduate scholarships, for those studying at university or college level but who have not completed their bachelor's degree; technical training awards, for high school graduates employed or engaged in a technical field; and awards for teachers of the physically, mentally, or educationally handicapped.

Dr. Dannenberg said the awards cover round-trip transportation, registration, tuition, laboratory fees, books and educational supplies, room and board, limited educational travel during the year abroad, and intensive language training, if necessary.

Deadlines for filing applications with a Rotary club is March 15.

In Lemon Grove and Spring Valley, additional information and application blanks may be obtained by contacting Lemon Grove Rotary President Robert L. Guest, at 460-3660 and Spring Valley Rotary President John W. Kelso, at 469-6542.

Petition Circulation Delayed In Vista La Mesa Annexation

Residents of Vista La Mesa will have to wait 60 to 90 days to find out if the La Mesa City Council will authorize circulation of petitions of annexation.

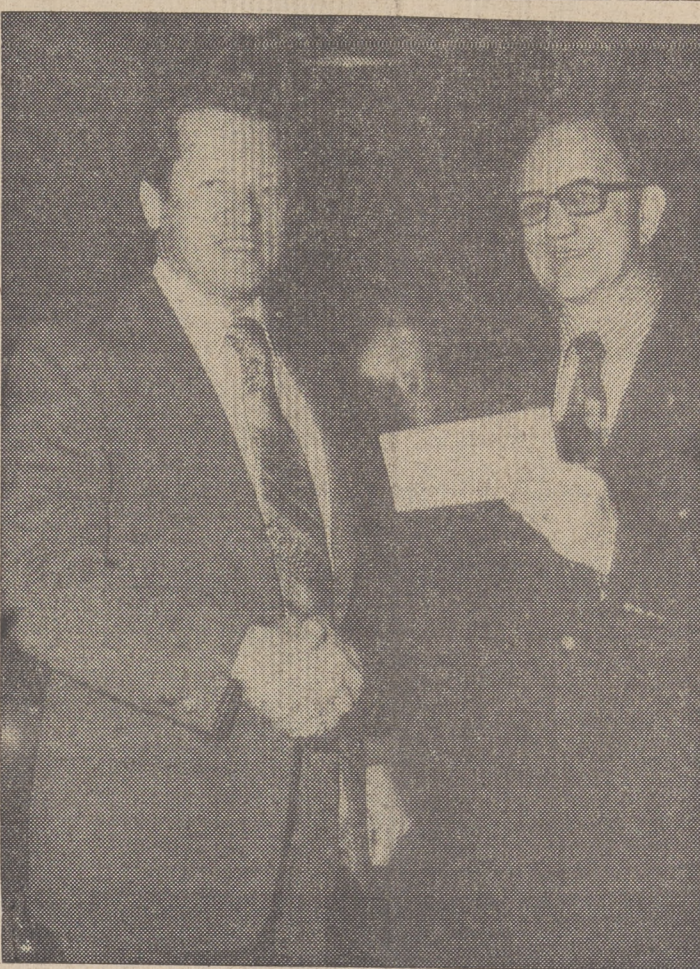

The La Mesa council last week voted 3 to 2 to delay circulation, after a staff report showed that La Mesa would gain $32,000 by annexation but would have to spend thousands more on major expenditures for capital improvements.

Further study of the project was ordered by the council when three members said they wanted to be sure the annexation would not result in increased taxes for property owners in the 422 acre area.

Two other councilmen voted to circulate, saying that further delay would lose momentum in annexation. The move affects an estimated 4,050 residents.

Delay was initiated by councilman Mark Uselton, who won support from Mayor Bob Helland and councilman Paul Fordem. Uselton has been a staunch opponent of annexation, but his previous attempts to delay usually lost by a 4-1 vote. Opposing the trio last week were George Bailey and Lee Jensen.

If the council orders petitions circulated within 90 days, it is likely an election will be held in conjunction with November's general election. Previously, the matter was planned for the June primary.

Mid-Term Graduates Number 143 at Highs

More than 140 seniors will graduate from Mt. Miguel and Monte Vista High Schools this Friday, but if they want formal presentation of a diploma they'll have to come back in June.

At Monte Vista, 75 out of 550 seniors have elected to leave at mid-term, while Mt.

Miguel reports 68 of 550 are graduating early. District wide, 572 seniors will end their studies in January, a total of 4,233 seniors in the eight high schools in Grossmont Union High School District.

Associate Superintendent Stanley McClintic cites two major reasons students choose to graduate mid-term. "First, a desire to get into higher education and secondly, general maturity and an eagerness to get into the adult world in work in some way," he said.

"The decision to graduate in January is not a hasty one," McClintic said. "Most of them have been planning for months and arranging their class schedules to graduate in January."

Dr. McClintic indicated that the accelerated trend of mid-term graduates has leveled off. "This is the third consecutive year that the number of January graduates has remained about the same," he said, adding, "I don't think the 1% decline represents any significant downward trend."

Despondency Causes Man To Take Life

Despondency over business matters caused Roger M. Smith, 48, 10720 Eureka, Spring Valley to take his own life last week, according to a report in the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Office.

Deputy Angel Sanchez reported that Smith's wife, Constance, Anne, left Thursday morning to go to the beauty parlor. When she returned, about 11:30 a.m., she found her husband unconscious in the front seat of the family car, with the motor running and the exhaust piped in by hose.

She pulled him from the vehicle and attempted resuscitation, but when the Spring Valley Fire Department ambulance and the sheriff's deputy arrived, Smith was dead, the report said.

March Fong Named

Assemblyman March Fong (D-Oakland) has been appointed to the California Arts Commission, it was announced today in Sacramento.

The Commission was created in 1963 to provide leadership and stimulate initiative and interest in the establishment of art programs and activities at the state and local levels. It is composed of nineteen members appointed by the Governor and the Legislature.

Broadway Merchants Meeting to Decide Blacktop, Parking

Property owners and merchants along Broadway will be asked to form a County Service Area to take care of parking and blacktop maintenance on private property at a meeting Monday, February 11, at 7:30 p.m. at Golden Avenue School auditorium.

Lemon Grove Election March 5 Asks Service Area, Annexation

Creation of a county service area and establishment of a tax of 13 cents. Lemon Grove voters will also be called on to authorize a 12 cent maintenance tax to landscape the new Broadway median only, will face Lemon Grove and areas near the railroad voters in a March 5 special election.

The service area money would be used for the acquisition and maintenance of park sites. Two sites, Detwiler said, have been selected for parks, and if the ballot measure is approved, final decision will rest with the board of supervisors.

The sites are 18 acres in Broadway Heights near Laconia and six acres near Berry and Mt. Vernon in Lemon Grove. Cost of acquiring and developing the sites are $175,000 for the 18 acres and $138,000 for the six acres.

Residents of Broadway Heights will also have to approve the annexation.

Grade School Graduate Returns As Teacher - 32 Years Later

Carrol Lynn Anderson, who as Carrol Close attended Lemon Grove Grammar School, came back to her alma mater one day last week.

She found herself amid a welter of memories, dating back as far as the 1930s and into 1942, when she was graduated from the "old" school, which is now a storage room on the grounds of Lemon Grove Junior High School.

Carrol was one of 79 students matriculating that year, and fondly remembers that the school, then, nestled in groves of citrus and avocados. The old desks were equipped with inkwells, ideal for mischievous young boys to stick girls' pigtails in.

As a substitute teacher, she spent one day with seventh and eighth grade classes, teaching civics, health and English. A 1973 annual was obtained from the office, and Mrs. Anderson had many of the children sign it as a remembrance of her day in class.

In class, she discussed with the students the changes that have occurred in Lemon Grove during 32 years, and what the world may look like 32 years from now.

She moved away from Lemon Grove after graduation from grade school, eventually married and, 19 years later, studied successfully for a teaching credential. Hence her day as a substitute teacher in this community.

Now a La Mesa resident, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Close, still reside in the old homestead at 7529 Central ave.

Named to the board of directors were Russell, Dorman, Wally Knutson of Art Leitch Realtors; Parker Shumate of the telephone company; Griff Clark, San Diego Pet Hospital; Larry Scott of Winchell's; Dave Harvey of Thomas & Son Disposal and Don Carter.

Installation, with cocktails and a dinner, will be held April 6 at the VFW Hall. Richard Norquist and Tom Little are co-chairmen of the affair, which will be catered by Jac's.

Seven new businesses have joined the chamber, including Broadway Texaco, Winchell's Donut House, House of Subs, Vernon Officer, O.D., Liberty Loan Corp., Popular Liquor and Delicatessen and La Pluma Pet Shop.

SILVER BEAVER — Gordon F. Lee, of Spring Valley, who climbed the famed Matterhorn with his son, was awarded the Silver Beaver, the highest Scouting award that can be presented by a local council. Lee, 9260 Hillside dr., is a member of the San Diego County Council public relations committee and Scout Fair committee, and has received a Freedom Foundations award when he was associated with Boys Life magazine. He is a member of the Audubon Society and the Sierra Club.

HEART FUND DRIVE—A fund raising drive for the San Diego County Heart Association will be held during the month of February, and Heart Sunday (the 24th) will be spearheaded by Mrs. John Thornton (right) and Mrs. Charles Bieler. The campaign will kickoff with a Sunday brunch at the Hanalei in Mission Valley, with the feature attraction being Elizabeth Baur, star of television's Ironside and 1974 San Diego Heart Queen.

Civic Youth Orchestra Plans Free Concert At La Jolla

The unique Civic Youth Orchestra according to Robert Emile, director, will present a free concert Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in Sherwood Hall, La Jolla.

JA's Annual Dinner Dance February 22

Over 135 volunteer advisors to Junior Achievement will be honored at the group's annual recognition dinner dance to be held February 22 at 6 p.m. at the Hotel Islandia.

Tom Smith of Rohr Industries has accepted the chairmanship of the event, which will attract almost 300 people. The keynote speech will be made by Rev. Joseph Wick of Lafayette, Indiana.

Junior Achievement is an international, non-profit corporation teaching high school students during the past 18 years. There are 52 graduates free enterprise system. Under the watchful eyes of four advisors, 30 teens form their own "mini-corporation", sell stock, elect officers, decide upon a product or service to manufacture and market, keep records, pay wages, salaries, taxes, and issue an annual report to their stockholders in April. Over 1,000 teens have been active in JA this program year.

World's Largest Electronic Organ Will Be Dedicated

Fletcher Hills Presbyterian Church, 455 Church Way, El Cajon will dedicate its new Rodgers Custom Organ Sunday at 7 p.m. and will present the world-renowned organist, composer and conductor, Richard Purvis as the organist for the evening.

Most recently, Purvis served, for some thirty years, as organist and Master of the Choristers at San Francisco's Grace Cathedral (Episcopal). His organ compositions for the church are as well-known as those of J. S. Bach.

It has been a great many years since San Diego audiences heard a Richard Purvis concert, the last being at First Presbyterian Church, San Diego, in the mid-fifties. He has been active in conducting church music seminars, in series, for the Lemon Grove Southland Music Center.

The Custom Rodgers Organ Purvis will be using is almost an identical duplication of his own studio organ and is designed and built by the Rodgers Organ Company of Hillsboro, Oregon.

The Organ has four divisions: Great, Swell, Choir and Pedal and contains some 46 pipes on up through the 1 foot voices, and higher, of the mixtures in the organ. It is the largest solid-state electronic organ to be installed in any church, to date, in southern California. Such sounds as the harp and carillon are now generated electronically in addition to solo stops such as the clarinet, to the fiery reed chorus in the swell division of the organ. Romantic voices such as flute and string celestes are dispersed throughout the swell and choir divisions of the organ.

Purvis's program will include works of Bach, Handel, Dupont and Franck. In addition, he will play some of his own compositions for the organ and thus afford the opportunity of his interpretation of his own compositions.

Rebekahs Plan Three Meetings

Birthday members will be honored when the Past Noble Grand Association of District 54, Rebekah Degree, meets Friday, February 8, at noon at Colina de Sol Recreation Center, 5319 Orange ave.

Members are expected to bring a sack lunch, and dessert will be served by Mrs. Martha Purdy, president, and Mrs. Dora Kaltsuks.

Cards and games will be enjoyed after luncheon.

Meanwhile, the regular meeting of Mesa Jewel Rebekah Lodge 409, IOOF, will meet Wednesday, February 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall, 2885 Imperial ave., Lemon Grove. Mrs. Stella Eckenroth, Noble Grand, will preside.

The Advancement Club will meet Thursday evening, February 14, at 7:30, at the home of Mrs. Pennelle Adams, 4574 Marlborough dr., San Diego, to elect officers for 1974.

Church Plans Rummage Sale

Vista La Mesa Christian Church, 4210 Massachusetts, La Mesa, will hold its Annual Rummage Sale in Fellowship Hall Saturday 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Caryl Bates, Christian Women's Fellowship President said proceeds will be used in the local church and in mission fields.

Marian Kinyon and Lucille Newman are handling posters and Mrs. Bates is in charge of collection for the sale. Donated articles may be left at the church January 31 or February 1.

crunch February 1-18. The wagon symbolizes the type of alternative transportation girls are being asked to use during the sale. Candy will be sold at shopping center booths and door-to-door by girl members.

Alumnae Group 'Lennie', Raunchier Than Before Returns in Off Broadway Production

by Max Goodwin

The Alumnae Association of the Academy of Our Lady of Peace will sponsor "Hearts and Flowers", their annual spring dessert card and game party, on Saturday, February 9, at 1 p.m. in the parlors of Carondelet Hall.

Mrs. Donald Dreyer and Mrs. Cas Impastato, chairman and co-chairman for the event, have announced that the proceeds from the day will be given to the Media Centre, which is now being enlarged for the use of the students at the Academy.

Students from the 4-year high school's California Scholastic Federation chapter will assist the alumnae at the party. Donations will be $1.50 per corner and reservation may be made by calling Mrs. Dreyer (466-1895), Mrs. Impastato (281-5616), or the school (299-2266).

Amethysts Displayed

Amethysts will be on exhibition in a mineral and gem display at the Natural History Museum during the month of February. Featured in the exhibit will be "The Rose of France" a fine amethyst specimen taken from the Carlsbad area.

Amethysts will also be featured in the Museum's monthly grab-bag and rock sale Sunday from 1 to 4:30 p.m., along with other new material assembled by Curator of Minerals Josephine Scripps.

Garden Club Schedules Old Town Tour, Lunch

The Lemon Grove Woman's Club, Garden Section, will tour Old Town Tuesday.

The group will meet at the clubhouse at 2810 Main street at 10:30 a.m. for a short meeting before the tour. Luncheon will be at Old Town.

Guests are welcome and new members are encouraged. Specifics regarding the tour or membership can be obtained from Mrs. J. E. Butler at 469-2821.

27th Annual Camellia Show Attracts 200 Exhibitors

The 27th Annual Camellia Show will be held Saturday and Sunday in the Conference Building in Balboa Park, and entries are invited Saturday morning between 7 and 10 o'clock.

Show hours Saturday are from 1 to 6 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. Several hundred varieties numbering about 4,000 blooms from 200 exhibitors are expected. No entry fees or memberships are required to enter the competition. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded for the best blooms in eleven divisions. Show schedules may be obtained from Mary Greenleaf at 281-1250.

Other features of the show include corsage making demonstrations, landscape displays, grafting demonstrations, plant drawings and artistic arrangement displays by the San Diego Flower Arrangers Guild.

A fifty cent door fee will be charged to the public. Servicemen in uniform will be admitted free.

But the message is the same. Lenny believed that it was people that caused the discussion of natural things to be considered vulgar. The opening scene of "Lenny" makes the point. In it is a tribe of swamp-like creatures. Chanting, they gather to elect a leader. The first candidate says he will give up sex if elected. He is cheered roundly. The second refused celibacy and is roundly cheered. The third said he would abstain, but he would talk about it. The tribe made noises of disapproval because then, as today, it's talking about it that is dirty, Lenny would have contended.

But that idea creates a problem for the reviewer. If he reviews it honestly, he's got to talk about it — and that's dirty. Little of the material in "Lenny" is pointless. It is mostly stuff he used on his nightclub circuit in the 1950's-1960's when four-letter words were not used in public.

His work was satire. He seems to have lost some of its polish but scenes had better be more nudity. A nude female has been added to the scene in which two nude pounded away at sex, politics, society and customs, using rock-bottom language. As a result, he faced many prosecutions in obscenity trials.

Lenny was addicted to drugs and died at the age of 40 on a toilet in jail after ingesting a poisonous dose of drugs.

His life — and death — is faithfully portrayed on the Off Broadway stage. Seeing the show is a moving experience — and a shocking one. Few will like what he says but even fewer disagree that he has the ability to spotlight weaknesses of society.

If you see it, and we hope you do, you will not leave the theatre feeling that you have seen a dirty play. We think now, as we did following the original presentation, that Lenny was truly a moralist. But he used immoral language to make his moral points more dramatic.

Appearing in supporting roles is a tall, redhead who plays Lenny's stripper wife, Judy Cassmore. George Womack as Sherman Hart; David Leisure as Atry, Lenny's lawyer; Kathleen Bishop O'Rourke as Sally, his mother; Deborah Davis as Mema, his aunt; Esther Sutherland as the Bishop; James Owsley as Emile; Herbert Hall as a cop; Lee Corrigan as the nightclub owner; Thad Geer as Moses; Thomas A. Kopache as the announcer; Georgia Votiko as a Southern belle; Kathy Bell Denton as a jail matron; and Paul Shaffer as Christ.

Showtime is set for 8:30 p.m. weekly, on Saturdays at 6 and 9:30 p.m. and on Sundays at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Senior citizens, students and the military receive 1/2 price reductions, according to seat availability and arrival at the theatre at least 1 hour prior to performance time. The theatre is located at 314 F st., San Diego, Calif. 92101, (714) 235-6536, with the Box Office open daily between 10 a.m.-9 p.m. on Mondays between 1-6 p.m.

Star of India Pix On Display

The Star of India is the scene of a recently opened month long photo exhibit. The photographs are all of the Star of India, but seen from many different perspectives. They were taken during a photo contest held jointly by the Maritime Museum Association of San Diego and the Photo Arts Club of San Diego in late summer.

The 45 winning entries are on display and include both interior and exterior shots of the Star of India, taken from daybreak to setting sun.

Aztecs Seek End To Losing Streak

Things didn't go according to plan last week for the State basketball team and tough UC Santa Barbara will try to make things worse, when the Gauchos meet the Aztecs at 8 p.m. Saturday in Peterson Gym. The game is a PCAA contest.

The Aztecs helped Loyola and Northern Illinois snap seven game losing streaks last week, losing to the Lions 65-59 and to the Huskies 89-80 in overtime. The losses pushed State's record to 4-13 for the season.

Santa Barbara had a good week last week, beating PCAA foe San Jose State 81-62 and Northridge State 77-69. The Gauchos are 9-7 on the season and 1-2 in the PCAA. The Aztecs are 1-3 in the PCAA.

Opera Guild

Dr. Dwight Twist, President of the San Diego Opera Guild and Mrs. Lionel U. Ridout, President of San Diego Opera, Inc., announce the merger of the parent Guild with its producing company, San Diego Opera, Inc.

Crafts featured in the series will include the making of book marks on Saturday, Feb. 23 and making mobiles on Saturday, March 9. Some of the films that will be seen on alternating Saturdays are "And Now Miguel," "Hopscotch" and Walt Disney's "Beaver Dam."

All necessary craft materials are furnished by the library and the programs are free. Anyone who is interested in attending any or all of the programs is urged to register in advance at the Lemon Grove Library, 7735 Pacific ave., or phone 463-5982.

Computers Ready To Help Teachers In Grossmont High School District

Teachers in the Grossmont Union High School District will soon become the first in the county able to talk directly with the District's educational computer through a teletype when they wish to set up Computer Assisted Instruction for their classes.

Modifications to the District's existing Hewlett-Packard 2000 E computer, which were completed on Monday and Tuesday, give the computer more memory storage space, a quicker response, more entry "ports," and the ability to handle more students on-line simultaneously. But perhaps the most important modification is the addition of the Instructional Dialogue Facility (IDF) — the element which allows teachers to program the computer using "plain English."

According to Bill Bradley, chairman of the District's Computer Education Council, more and more teachers are seeking Computer Assisted Instruction because they find it offers a particular type of individualized instruction, it expands the learning experiences in the classroom, and it is so attractive to students that they will eagerly launch into even the most difficult assignments if they are to use the computer. The biggest hang-up in the past has been the necessity to program the computer using a complicated "computer language."

Bradley, a math instructor at El Capitan High School explained that in the past teachers either had to take a special course in computer language and programming in order to learn how to set up their class exercises, or had to find someone who knew programming, and wait until he could find the spare time to set up the program. Sometimes it could be a long wait.

"With the Instructional Dialogue Facility, the teacher will type out the code for the IDF, and the computer will come back asking certain key questions," Bradley said.

"The computer will ask the teacher such things as what kind of exercise it will be, what the questions are, what the answers are, how many times a student should try each question, and whether or not to give him the right answer if he misses the question," he said. Once the "conversation is completed, the computer will retain the exercise for the use of any student who types in the designated code number."

Bradley said that the addition of the IDF brings Computer Assisted Instruction much closer to reality, because "the computer is really available to all students, now that a teacher can write his own program."

In expanding the computer to the 2000 F, the District also increased its memory storage capacity and its ability to handle more students, more quickly. The immediate impact was to increase the number of "ports," or hookups, from 16 to 20. The new configuration will allow the District to expand to 32 ports as needed, double the previous number.

The Hewlett-Packard computer operates in both the "batch" and "communications" modes, which means it can either read computer cards or operate directly from remote teletype input. The computer card mode is known through-out the industry as the "batch" mode, because a batch of cards are brought physically to the computer center, where they are run through a card reader.

"Our computer is set up to read cards that are marked with a special pencil, as opposed to punched cards, which offers us a real advantage," Bradley said, explaining that "students can take a stack of cards and a pencil home with them and do their program as a homework assignment." Another advantage of the batch system is that an entire class can be working on their programs at the same time, without waiting to get on the computer or typing up computer time.

"We can take all of the cards to Helix, where the computer is located, and run the programs during off hours when the computer is not being used for CAI," he said.

The biggest advantage of the communications mode is that "when a student sits down at the teletype and starts to type, he gets an immediate response," Bradley said. Although the computer itself is located at Helix High School, all eight high schools in the District are hooked up to it by way of telephone lines. The telephone handset is placed in a special cradle, which converts the teletype impulses into audio signals, which are then transmitted over the telephone wire to the computer. A special code number is required to get "on line" with the computer.

"With this system, any room with a telephone can serve as your teletype terminal location. In effect, your computer is as close as your telephone," Bradley said.

Currently the District has 21 teletype terminals located on its various campuses, "with more on order." With the additional ports, twenty of these teletypes can be in use at one time. Since the computer operates on a time-sharing basis, it can respond to one student's request, and, while that student is pondering the response and deciding his next answer, it can continue to service other terminals. All of this happens in addition to the Computer Assisted Instruction, the computer allows for Computer Managed Instruction in which a teacher programs the computer to make certain decisions based upon a student's performance. If a student is having difficulty with a certain section, the computer might continue to give him additional exercises in that area. If, however, a student answers a certain percentage of the questions properly, within a limited period of time, the computer might say "You seem to know this, let's skip the next part and go on to the next assignment."

Color Pix Scheduled

Helix Showmaster members, George and Virginia Forbes will present "Red Rock Country," at 7 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m. in the Ben Polak Auditorium at La Mesa's Fine Arts Center, 8053 University ave., on Friday February 8.

Woman's Club Gives $1,000 to Swim Fund

The Lemon Grove Woman's Club got in the swim of things this week when they presented a check for $1,000 to the Mt. Miguel fund to build a swimming pool.

Mrs. Gladys Phares, president of the club, handed the check to Orville Schuff, chairman of the school's booster Club, as Principal Dr. Robert Pyle, Bill White, who spearheads the fund raising drive, and Mrs. Walter Shimp, treasurer of the Woman's Club, looked on.

Dr. Pyle said the fund goal is $125,000, and White added that $10,000 is now in the bank.

Federal Tax Booklet Ready

The new edition of "Your Federal Income Tax" is now available at Internal Revenue district offices and most first and second class post offices throughout Southern California.

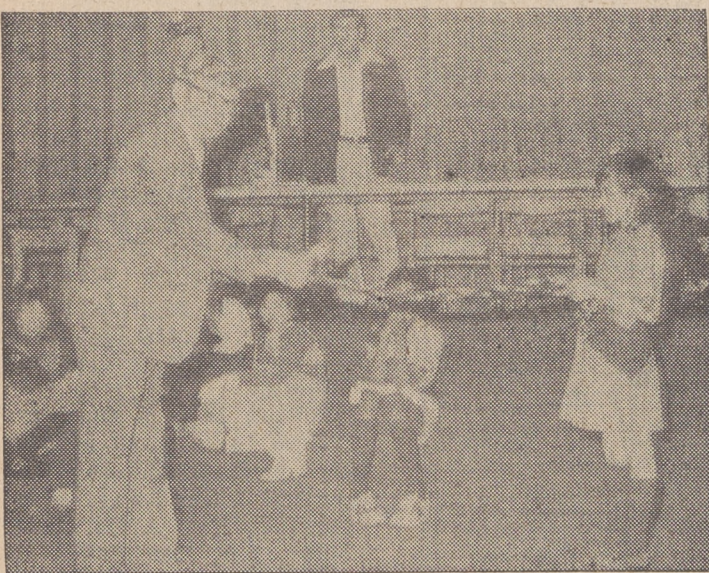

The 192-page booklet (IRS Publication 17) may be obtained for $1 at IRS offices or $1.25 postpaid from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. William H. Connett, District Director of Internal Revenue for Southern California, said today.

The 1974 edition of "Your Federal Income Tax" is divided into six parts, each beginning with a brief introduction that explains in general terms the subject matter covered, including a listing, by chapters, of topics in that part.

The book takes you through each part of the return, giving explanations of the tax laws that deal with the treatment of such items as salary and

Measles Cases Decline in 1973, But Food Poisoning Increases

The number of red measles (rubella) cases that occurred in 1973 were reported in the recent issue of California Morbidity, a weekly report of the state health department. The report listed only 848 measles cases in 1973, compared with 3,329 in 1972 and 2,918 in 1971. Food poisoning, however, increased to 2,538 cases in 1973, up from 1,600 in 1972 and 1,000 in 1971. Gonorrhea also declined for the third year, but syphilis cases were more numerous. The 1973 data on selected diseases which must be reported by local health departments are shown below.

Hepatitis (type B) rose to nearly 3,000 cases last year, compared with about 1,700 in 1972 and 1,600 in 1971. Although gonorrhea, a venereal disease that still is rampant, afflicted 95,785 in California during 1973, the total was less than the 99,534 in 1972 and 101,650 in 1971. However, the report noted the total number of syphilis cases 12,366 in 1972 and 12,538 in 1971.

Search On For HRC Director

A nationwide search has begun to find a replacement for Floyd Wilson, executive director of the San Diego Human Relations Commission for the past two years, who recently announced he is leaving that post when his current contract expires in March. The HRC is the county funded body charged with the work of promoting respect and understanding among the various ethnic groups in the community.

Wilson, the first person to hold the position of HRC director, indicated that he is quitting the $20,000-a-year job for professional reasons. "When I first accepted the position I said my interests were in the developmental and formative stages of a new organization. My primary goal would be to see the HRC through its early stages and then leave the running of it to someone else," Wilson noted. "I feel my objectives have been met and that the commission now is an active and integral part of the community," he said. During his tenure Wilson was involved with the acquisition of office facilities, drafting of personnel and operational policies, hiring of staff, and implementation of Commission programs.

The HRC was established in late 1970 by a joint exercise of powers agreement between the County of San Diego and cities within the county. It is administered by a 48-member governing board. A full time staff of specialists carry out day-to-day operations.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

He came out West with smokin' irons and driving a ton, which is what one would expect from a lad named Winchester. His shooting skill is remarkable and he does his thing with either hand. He can drill a shot from left or right, one-handed or two.

It's sheer joy to watch this boy. His effervescent spirit is pure comic, but his skill is genuine. He's 30 summers going on 15 years. Larry Winchester is the name. Remember it, he's on his way to fame and (hopefully) fortune.

And he does his shootin' with clubs. His game is golf. There are those who say the nice thing about golf is that it isn't compulsory. And that certainly has the ring of truth in it. Especially for those like this portable pounder. But for one who can bring ohhhs and ahhs with their niblick skills, that is a horse of a different hue.

There are those who follow the sun and watch the golden people play to a point of perfection that almost brings a yawn. Arnold Palmer came charging and sometimes got bit, but that only proved him human. The mechanical excellence of Nicklaus and the Crempions, the Mitchells, Millers, Trevinos and Weiskopfs, all those who play apart from mortal man, sometimes can be boring stuff to hackers whose goal in life is to break 80.

There's no connection, man. It's like a different world. And then there are guys like Larry Winchester. He's one of us. A mortal being. He shows signs of greatness in what he does, but he admits to skying high on occasion and likes to take a milligan now and again.

His bag is full of trick shots. And he's got a bag full. More than 100. And he does them every way there is. Standing, one leg or two; sitting, on a chair or on the ground; left handed or right, and (follow this if you can) left handed with a right handed club, and the other way around.

He comes by his skills honestly. His dad owned a driving range back in Ogden, Utah, where Larry grew up and lived before he rejected the pleasures of the world and joined the army.

"I spent almost seven years in the army," Larry admitted. "And I played with a lot of generals and colonels and brass like that. Instead of giving them handi-cap strokes, I'd play left handed, one handed, back handed or one clubbed. It was stuff I learned fooling around on my Dad's driving range."

Out of the army and back in college he was victim of a car-truck accident and that started him on his professional career.

"My little Volks got run over by a stock truck and I was buried under 15 head of cattle. Let me tell you, that's a lot of bull."

His full cast broken leg stopped his skiing, but down slope in the sunshine he hobbled around playing one legged golf. When his hoof healed he turned pro and tried the mini tour, hanging in for beer-and-beans money.

Then last September he began fooling around on the driving tee getting ready for the local "Open" at Jackpot, Nevada. The resident pro asked him to repeat his thing for the local folks and his new career was launched.

"The second time out I learned a very important lesson," admits Larry. "I forgot to get paid. I figured even for a beginner, I deserved more than that. If I knew I was to play for nothing, I'd have done it in my old clothes."

That's where John Peterson, owner of Lemon Grove's genteel gathering place for gentlemen — the Foxy Lady, comes in. A man with a rare eye for talent, Gentle John invited Larry Winchester to let him represent his comic style and shooting skill. They shook and spit into the wind on it and Larry moved to Lemon Grove.

Larry works out most days at Alvarado Driving Range and still follows the mini tour. This week he's playing at Whispering Palms in Rancho Santa Fe and then up to El Camino Country Club in Oceanside.

Somewhere along the line he's going to pull out a driver with a seven foot handle. "It's for golfers over 40," he'll tell the crowd. "They need all the shaft they can get."

He's a very funny guy, this Larry Winchester. And we wish him all the best. It's the least we can do for a golfer who's going to draw his caddies from a genteel gathering place for gentlemen like the Foxy Lady. Some guys have all the luck.

NEW TREE—Crafts students David Stollenwerk, third from right, hands Monte Vista principal R. C. Brady a bill of sale for $22.50, representing purchase of a new tree for the Potthoff memorial near the school's office. At Brady's right is Mrs. Helen Potthoff, MV nurse now on leave of absence. The original tree in the garden memorial to Mrs. Potthoff's late daughter was destroyed by vandals. Students in Vince Muzzo's crafts classes made and sold items to raise money for the new tree. Students display some of the works of art.

Bridge Traffic Down

Traffic over the Coronado Toll Bridge in December decreased by 7.3 per cent over December of 1972, the California Toll Bridge Administration announced this week.

A total of 9,459,116 vehicles crossed during 1973, of which 721,093 used the bridge in December.

League-Leading Gulls Meet Bucks Saturday

The San Diego Gulls, currently in the No. 1 spot in the Western Hockey League, are in Denver for a Friday game before returning to the Sports Arena Saturday night for the game against the Portland Buckaroos at 8 p.m.

Monte Vista Captures League Lead

Monte Vista jumped into the Grossmont League lead with a 46-44 win over Grossmont High Tuesday night before an overflow crowd at the Monarchs gym as senior guard Fred Factuar hit a last second jumper to pull the basketball victory out.

Mt. Miguel took an 80-51 breeze over hapless El Cajon to improve its league standing to 4-3.

Monte Vista and Mt. Miguel continued their winning ways in Grossmont League basketball last Friday night with victories over El Capitan and El Cajon Valley High respectively.

The Monarchs had an easy time with the Braves, romping 52-34 and remaining in a tie with Grossmont for the league lead. Both teams sport 6-0 league records.

A well-balanced attack coupled with strength on the backboards enabled Monte Vista to control the game through all four quarters. Steve Ridgeway was high point man with 17.

Mt. Miguel had to go into overtime to beat El Capitan 52-80, and even the Matador league mark at 3-3. Steve Solomon scored the winning bucket with one second remaining, after El Capitan had twice turned the ball over with a four point lead at 30 seconds to play.

El Capitan Coach Bob Hoss complained about poor officiating, blaming the referees for his team's loss.

California 500 Cuts Fuel, Changes Dates to Save Gas

Rules limiting the amount of fuel cars may burn during the 500-mile Triple Crown events will be held, cars will be limited to 230 gallons each for practice, 30 for time trials, 57 for the 100-mile qualifying races and 230 for the race itself.

An allocation formula established by USAC restricts the amount of methanol each car may use during practice, qualifying and race activity or the nine events on the 1974 championship schedule. At Ontario, where the first events will be held, cars will be limited to 230 gallons each for practice, 30 for time trials, 57 for the 100-mile qualifying races and 230 for the race itself. Previously, there were no limits on fuel for practice or qualifying and cars were allowed 340 gallons for the event.

Less strain on the engines and that combined with the milder March temperatures should "It's going to alter the strategy of the California 500 drastically," says Jim Cook, OMS' general manager. "Before, the cars could go the distance averaging 1.4 miles per gallon. Now, they'll have to get 1.8 miles a gallon to make it."

In order to increase mileage, the engines will have to run at lower boost levels (the amount of air and fuel mixture forced through the turbochargers) which will reduce racing speeds as well. "We feel this will make the race more competitive than it's ever been before," Cook says. "There will be less keep more cars running longer."

The California 500, now in its fifth year at Ontario, has been held on Labor day weekend in the past.

USAC's allocation standards will reduce total fuel consumption for the nine events by about 30 percent, cutting total gallage from 154,740 to 108,800.

The cutback is in line with recommendations of the National Motorsports Committee, a group representing the major race organizations during the energy crisis, that each sanctioning body reduce consumption by at least 25 percent in 1974.

Ontario began cutting back its California 500 program last year, eliminating two days of practice and shortening other practice days from nine to seven hours. Cook says another practice day has been dropped this year and carburetion tests, held on Thursday before the race, will run three hours instead of five.

The combined cuts have reduced methanol consumption for the two-week California 500 program from about 30,000 gallons in 1972 to 23,000 gallons this year.

There will now be four days of practice for the California 500, starting Tuesday, February 26, and continuing through Friday of that week. Practice will run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day with a break from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m.

Time trials will be held on Saturday, March 2, with the two 100-mile qualifying races the next day. After those events, the cars will have only three more hours of running time during the carburetion tests and the race will begin at 11:30 a.m. Sunday, March 10.

Miss Softball Expands To LG-SV Area

Expansion into Lemon Grove and Spring Valley for the first year has been announced by Miss Softball of America, currently based in Chula Vista-Bonita areas.

If enough teams sign up here, the group will ask for playing dates and sites from the parks and recreation commission.

A registration booth will be manned at K-Mart, 935 Sweetwater rd., Spring Valley, this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Four booths will be located in Chula Vista, at Two Guys, Vons, K-Mart and Fed-Mart; one in Bonita, at Big Bear, and in National City and Nestor.

Three divisions will be formed, for girls nine through 12 (Minors) 13 through 15 (Majors) and 15½ through 18 (Seniors). A registration fee of $5 covers insurance and uniform usage. Birth certificates and parents' signatures are required.

Ecology Subject

Fred Griffith, of the county health department, will speak on ecology when the Spring Valley Rotary Club meets Friday noon at the Ox Bow Inn.

The average bad check taken in at a supermarket is $27.17, according to the Super Market Institute.

ber. One Fan-Turned-Owner. Attendance was so great that the increased revenue to the Great City made the mayor and his council more popular than ever.

Buzzie gave last year's left-over peanuts to Arnie who ground them into fertilizer. The nuts were so rancid that the fertilizer poisoned the locusts; the locust plague was ended! Gentle, steady rains came again—but only on days when the circus was on tour—and Arnie's fields again prospered. All was serene again.

The turn-around came when they 71-year-old kid named Ray Kroc came whistling down the mid-way.

But why kid ourselves. The story line is unbelievable. Television producers buy such things as a talking mule and a semi-nude goner beauty who lives in a bottle, and deep social reflections as "Haw". But they wouldn't touch this impossible script with a 40-ounce bat.

1900's Revisited

The year 1900 isn't so far away that the easy-going, happy times of the turn of the century is lost in dreary pages of history books.

Rather, the era is brought to life in a Sears Roebuck catalogue being given by an area banking facility to attract depositors.

The price of the book is right—it's free if there are any left. But everything in it is ridiculously outdated.

How about a 2½ pound can of apricots for 18 cents? Or a man's suit of English wool, custom tailored, $10.50, and shoes, $2.

It's as if a soothsayer had returned to show us the profligacy of our ways.

The book itself is an interesting study of the nostalgic past when life was simpler and more relaxed. Some 1900 prices will make you angry if you feel that government programs have had a part in the higher cost. But you can simmer down again when you realize that the average wage was 22 cents an hour.

In addition to giving an insight into the flavor and pace of life of the era, the book is jammed with ornate illustrations and exaggerated advertising claims in the style of the times.

An electric belt . . . giving life and strength instantly to every part of the body is $4. Pasteur's Death to Microbes for "all diseases of the blood" 80 cents ½ gallon. Paint is 45 cents a gallon; Winchester repeating shotguns, $17.50; bowling balls, $4.50 (drilling 25 cents extra); 75-inch couches, $7.95; 1,000 pound fireproof safe, $24.74; dining chairs, 68 cents and upright "parlor grand" pianos, $98.50.

Men could order toupees by cutting paper the exact shape and size of the bald spot, marking the crown and parting and enclosing $5.50 and a lock of hair indicating whether it was straight or curly.

Ladies could order lace-trimmed umbrella-type drawers for 55 cents and a union suit for 89 cents. A skirt of good Manchester cloth, 3½ yards around the bottom, was $1.75. A very stylish velvet hat with tucked brim, $1.55.

There are thousands of other items, all transporting the reader to another age more graphically than anything we've ever seen because communication is at the gut level—where reader is most experienced—in day-by-day shopping tours. The catalog was being given by Home Federal S&L Assn.

Cold Weather Exercise Cautions

NEW YORK (ED)—Fall is the time for all sorts of rigorous outdoor activities, from raking leaves to bicycling in the park. And it's followed by the ski, sled and ice skating seasons. If you've played it lazy all summer, confining your exercise to the exertion needed to turn yourself for an even tan, be careful when you start running about. Though there's a breeze in the air, you can still become overheated, and wind up with a case of sore muscles from overdoing your cool-weather exercises.

You might think sweeping that pile of leaves is a one-two-three affair. But the aftermath of a day-long rake session can be a sore back and tired arms. Bodies need warming up as the temperature goes down. Before grabbing a rake, test your muscles with push-ups, and jumping jacks . . . a general limbering-up routine.

If you're planning to attack the slopes as soon as the snow falls, don't spend all day on skis your first time out. (You'll be so sore, you may be sidelined for the rest of the season!) Make sure your exercise gear includes, Deep Strength Arthritis Pain Relief Rub. This high-potency soothe provides concentrated warmth to relieve arthritis-caused stiffness, and the aches caused by a Sunday athlete's overexertion. Whatever activity strikes your cold-weather fancy, dress warmly. You may laugh in the face of temperatures above zero, but your muscles don't think over-exposure is very funny! Today winter clothing needn't weigh you down; lightweight, warm wear is available. Check your local sporting goods store to see how you can beat the chills of winter.

Lemon Grove
Fire Report

The Lemon Grove Fire Department, for the week of Jan. 21-28, answered three fire calls and one first aid call. Two of the fire calls involved property damage.

On Jan. 24, at 7:30 p.m., firemen went to a trailer at 7872 North ave., Space 20. It was discovered that flames from a hot water heater had ignited the connection on a butane tank. Damage was estimated at $20.

On Jan. 25, at 10:45 p.m., firemen responded to a call to Olive and Pacific sts. A car, belonging to a National City resident, had caught fire, due to leaking fuel. Damage was estimated at $50.

On Jan. 26, the first aid crew was called to 3007 Buena Vista. There they found Gertrude Hensen, 55, suffering from a heart malfunction. She was sent to a hospital.

Registration Period Open at E.C. College

Registration for the Spring Semester at Christian Heritage College starts today.

The second semester at the new campus, 2100 Greenfield dr., El Cajon, begins Monday and will include an extended Evening Division.

An evening course in Old Testament Literature will be given at the El Cajon campus on Monday evenings 7:30-9:30 p.m. Instructor is Donald Taylor. It is a three unit course which includes the survey of the later history of Israel during the period of the kings, the exile and return from captivity, and includes the study of Old Testament poetry and prophecy.

The original campus at 2716 Madison ave., San Diego will also offer evening courses.

Evening courses may be taken for credit by filing a formal application in the admissions office in person or by phone at 440-3043. These same courses may be taken on an audit basis without credit.

Christian Heritage College also offers over 40 day courses. This liberal arts college offers

Handywoman Uses Flooring in Novel Do-It-Yourself Projects

NEW YORK (ED)—Do-it-yourself addicts (and their number is growing as the cost of having anyone else do anything goes up-up-up) are discovering a new material for home decorating projects: flooring.

Today's vinyl flooring is easy to work with, colorful and wonderfully cleanable—a combination of qualities that attracted handywoman/author Deanne Raffel. Her design solutions—using readily available flooring materials by GAF, a leading manufacturer—could solve problems in your home.

To make a swinging kitchen door kick-proof (and kid-proof) she covers the surface with tile to match the floor. A useful table is a simple plywood cube covered in a stretch of sheet vinyl. To fuel her fireplace, she turns a cube open side up, fills it with logs and covers the outside with floor tiles in a red brick pattern to harmonize with the hearth.

ling of what a handywoman can accomplish, when she sets her mind to it.

Handywoman Deanne Raffel uses GAF floor tiles to give an all-American look to an all-purpose room (above). Floor tiles extend over window box—perfect for plants since water won't damage surface. Measure first, then cement into place. For complete design coordination, she makes curtains from GAF fabric patterned to match tile. Super-graphic (left) comes easy when you use sheet vinyl flooring. Trace the shape on the vinyl, snip it out with scissors and glue to the wall. For added interest, continue pattern across desk top and inlay into contrast-color floor. Foam-cushioned flooring tops the Parson's table (inset)—particularly practical where tabletop cleanliness counts. To do the job, rim table with lumberyard lattice, nailed in place. Fill nail holes with spackle, sand and spray-paint. Then cut flooring to size, cement down.

Garden-O-Rama Presented At Adult School

"Garden-O-Rama," a gala Grossmont High School Auditorium (Interstate 8 and Mur- torium (Interstate 8 and Mur- ray Drive). This free program is open February 13 from 7-10 p.m. at the general public and is designed for all who are interested in growing plants, vegetables, fruits, ornamentals or just improving the appearance of their properties. Exhibits demonstrations, and door prizes will be featured.

Panelists of experts in a variety of fields such as landscaping, organic gardening, soil, water, building codes and permits, bugs, indoor plant watering and garden lighting will answer questions from the audience.

Ed McEvoy, landscape designer, will serve as Master of Ceremonies and will be assisted by Paul Canaday, well known organic gardener and teacher.

This is the first time a program of this kind has been offered in the Grossmont area bringing together such a variety of talent and skills as represented by the experts on the panel. For further information call Grossmont Adult School 465-3131 Ext. 275.

Facing Winter

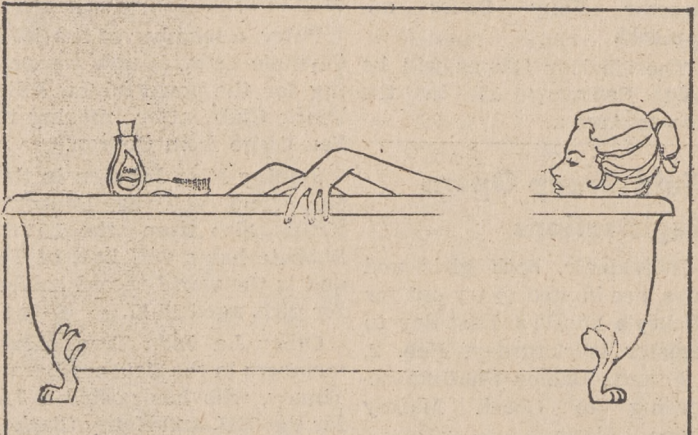

NEW YORK (ED)—Winter's great for cold weather sports—skiing, tobogganing, even a brisk romp around the block to wake up those hot house bones. Unfortunately, while you're having fun outdoors, your skin may be crying "mercy" from the cold dry air.

There's nothing like winter to take the moisture out of healthy skin. How to stop your skin from going parched? Make your regular bath routine a special beauty treatment. Here's how:

Before you step into the bath make sure you've assembled the necessary ingredients first. There's nothing worse than stepping out of a tub wet and cold, only to find your towels are out of reach. You'll need a good washcloth or sponge, a long-handled brush to scrub your back, and a warm luxurious towel. The bath is also the perfect place to defuzz legs and work on eyebrows—so you might include a razor (non-electric), tweezers and magnifying mirror.

While the bath is being drawn add a pure bath oil concentrate like Sardo to the water. It's a therapeutic bath oil that'll help relieve flaky, itchy, extra dry skin caused by exposure to winter's frost. (Your face is not the only feature that needs moisturizing!) The final step: pamper your psyche . . . that is, relax, lie back in the tub and think marvelous thoughts! Including a prettier you.

The number one rule for looking great all the time is healthy skin. This winter you won't have to stay indoors to keep your skin glowing. Now you know the secret!

The U. S. has sold 145 million bushels of wheat to China to be delivered by the middle of 1974.

Dr. Irving P. Crawford of the Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation received a $22,089 grant from the March of Dimes emphysema patient study.

County Needs Foster Homes

A foster home is just like any other home except it must be licensed by the County of San Diego, and until recently, foster homes had to pass a rigid fire inspection.

Homes were required to have a direct exit from each bedroom. Some of the fire districts accepted windows as a direct exit and other districts specified doors. Two-story homes needed enclosed stairwells and second floor exits to receive a fire clearance.

"The elimination of fire inspections for single family dwellings does not mean all houses will be approved for full-time and day care licenses," said Bim Plumb, chief of Foster Home Licensing. "If any structure appears unsafe, then a fire inspection will be arranged."

In October 1973, California Assembly Bill 2050 eliminated the need for a fire clearance for full-time and day care foster homes. AB 2050 applies to those homes caring for six or fewer normal ambulatory children, including infants in a single family dwelling.

"This recent law modifies the licensing requirements of a 1972 state law which called for fire inspections of all homes to be used for the care of unrelated children," Plumb said. "The 1972 law is still in effect since its original purpose was to protect the children in out-of-home care."

Two-story homes now stand a chance of being approved as foster and day care homes without having to make costly changes, he said. Homes are needed, especially full-time homes for teenagers 12 through 17.

The licenses are free and must be renewed annually. Persons interested in becoming foster and day care parents may contact foster home licensing at 279-8300.

RV Safety Course Offered At Helix

An eight week class in Recreational Vehicle Safety (including maintenance and repair) is being offered at Helix Adult School, 7323 University ave., La Mesa on Wednesday evenings from 7-9:30 in Room 9. The registration fee is $1 for the eight sessions.

Forrest Finders, instructor, has developed a course emphasizing the importance of extra skills and awareness required while driving recreational vehicles. Electrical, liquid petroleum gas and water systems will be discussed with recommendations for maintenance and safety.

For further information call Helix Adult office 463-8717.

Youth Groups Profit By Club's Donations

The Grossmont Optimist Club's 1974 budget included several local youth organizations.

The club distributed $1700 in donations to benefit East County youngsters.

A $1000 cash contribution was made to St. Madeline Sophie's Pre-school Training Center for Retarded Children. The El Cajon facility schools children of all faiths, helping many severely retarded young people who cannot be admitted to public schools.

A $450 portable audiometer was donated to the San Diego Hearing and Speech Auxiliary. The gear will be used to test children's hearing at free public clinics throughout the County.

Rounding out their gifting, the club gave $200 to Grossmont Pony League for the 2nd year in a row.

As a continuing primary project effort, the club has adopted the Special Education Department of Grossmont High School District. The goal is to ease the socialization of these educationally handicapped young people.

Prayer Meeting

The First Baptist Church of Spring Valley, Troy st., recently added a new feature to its program; there will be women's Bible study and a time of prayer, each Monday at 12:45 p.m. in the church. All women are welcome to attend, said Pastor Rod Carver.

LEARNING — With the help of Avondale Elementary School parent volunteer Mrs. Chiyoko Kerrigan, students Jimmy Brennan (left) and Jeff Taylor are reinforcing math concepts with a game. The new Early Childhood Education program in Avondale and Rancho schools is designed to get young students off to a successful start in schools.

Avondale and Rancho Schools Benefit From New Early Childhood Education Programs

Less than one year after the State Legislature passed and the governor signed SB-1302, students in the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District are noticing the effects of the new Early Childhood Education program.

The E.C.E. program began last fall in two of the district's 17 elementary schools: Avondale and Rancho, both in Spring Valley.

The new program, introduced in California by Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles, is designed to do several things with primary school children — kindergarten through grade three.

"Getting young students off to a successful start in school is so very important to the entire twelve years they spend in getting an education," stated Project Manager Janet Holt. "That's exactly what Early Childhood Education is all about."

And how does the program go about the job of getting students off to a successful start? One way is to increase the number of adults who work with young children. In addition to the classroom teacher, teacher aides and student helpers have been hired from project money to work in classrooms. Nearly 100 parent volunteers are now giving their time to working with K-3 children at Avondale and Rancho schools.

"Before the project began we had about 30 students for each adult; now we have as few as five children per adult at certain times of the day," Mrs. Holt said. "Besides the adults, we use cross-age tutors — older sixth, seventh, and eight-grade students, to help some of the younger children."

Another way students gain is to receive more library and health services than before. Increasing the number of health checks helps parents and teachers find children who need medical attention. In the long run, this attention is expected to help some students to do better in school. Additional inservice or teacher training is also planned as part of the E.C.E. program.

"The task of the classroom teacher is more important than ever before in E.C.E.," the attractive project manager pointed out. "She is more a director of learning and so we try to bring some of the latest teaching methods, equipments and materials to our staffs at Rancho and Avondale."

Parents play an important part in Early Childhood Education at the two schools. Each school has a parent advisory committee which meets regularly with other parents, teachers and school principals. They have elected their own chairman and may discuss everything from the project budget to individualized instruction. Parents attend classes that are suggested or asked for by the parents themselves.

Rancho School Principal Elvin Fong said, "Our E.C.E. project is moving forward in many ways but none is more important than the way parents have taken hold and contributed to the education of their own children."

Slayer of Spring Valley Girl Sentenced to Life In Prison

Jerry Robert Schnick of San Diego last week was sentenced to life in prison for the June 12 slaying of Carol Valkonen, 15, of Spring Valley.

Superior Court Judge Jack Levitt denied a request for a re-trial and reduction in the degree of the crime after sentence was passed. Schnick was convicted of first degree murder on December 14 in a non-jury trial.

Miss Valkonen, daughter of Mrs. Albert Valkonen, 10767 Jamacha blvd., was stabbed 39 times as she was on her way to Monte Vista High School in the early hours of June 12.

Schnick was apprehended near the scene of the crime by Tony M. Hernandez, 49, and his son, Dominic, 24, who live at 3310 S. Granada ave. They held him until authorities arrived.

Schnick was accused of sneaking up behind the girl and stabbing her as she walked to school. Judge Levitt ruled there was sufficient planning activity to uphold the finding of first degree murder, since Schnick saw the girl nearing school, parked his car, waited for her to come close and then stabbed her.

Schnick's attorney argued that the stabbing was a "psychotic episode" and "an explosion of violence," which were motiveless.

Schnick had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. During the trial, four psychiatrists gave varying conclusions in assessing Schnick's mental condition at the time of the slaying.

Sports Night At SV Meeting

The Spring Valley Elementary PTA unit meeting for January will be held today at 7:30 p.m. in the Cafeteria.

Cub Scout Pack No. 47 will present the flag ceremony and the Sponsoring Charter. Theme for the evening is "Sports Night", according to Mrs. Martha Humphries, Program Chairman.

Following a short business meeting, Ron Reina, Sports Co-ordinator of S.D. State College, aided by several members of the San Diego Aztecs, will present Aztec Highlights. Refreshments will be served and, in keeping with the evening's theme, there will be "sports" door prizes.

Imperial's Earnings Up

Imperial Corp. of America, with a branch in Lemon Grove, racked up a record $26.8 million in net earnings last year. It was a 16 per cent increase over the $23.1 million earned in 1972, according to V. L. Viskas, Imperial president.

Pre-share earnings in 1973 rose from 1.60 to 1.81 per share on 14,822,710 shares.

Playground Equipment Installed at SV Park

All playground equipment, been assessed district residents for park and recreation. pieces. is now in place in Spring Valley Park, at Jamacha and Sweetwater Springs, and Park and Recreation Advisory Board members are looking forward to dedication ceremonies coupled with an Easter Egg hunt this spring.

According to Herb Ketell, park chairman, children's play equipment installed last week included three slides, two swings, a merry go round and a whirler, a see-saw and a maze. Two bike racks were set up, as well as a basketball hoop, 12 picnic tables and six barbecue stoves.

Yet to be installed are an illuminated fountain and wading pool and lighting for night recreation. Big trees will be planted, Ketell said, and in the future are two tennis courts and reconditioning of the abandoned animal shelter to a gymnasium and recreation room.

A drinking fountain, donated by the Spring Valley Woman's Club, was also installed this week.

In the designing stage are rest rooms and a stage.

Ketell said the play equipment was budgeted at $7,200, but that actual cost was $9,647.

For the past 11 years, a 14.5 cent per $100 valuation has

SV Historians To Meet Wed.

The regular meeting of the Spring Valley Historical Society is scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 6, at 7:30 p.m., in the old adobe building on Memory ln., just east of Bancroft dr. The meeting will be open to the public, according to vice president Mrs. Charlotte Phillips.

Main order of business to be discussed will be the membership drive, of which Mrs. Eileen Smith is chairman. For full membership information, contact Mrs. Smith, at 466-2809. New members are solely needed at this time, with annual dues at $3.

Mrs. Phillips said there are students from four schools in the area (including a college), who have been digging for artifacts near the adobe building, and from time to time come up with some interesting items.

K. Wilcox Added to UW E. County Staff

The Lemon Grove and Spring Valley areas will be better served by United Way as a result of the expansion of UW programs and added personnel.

Kenneth R. Wilcox has been promoted to the newly-created position of United Way's East County area director, it was announced by Donald L. Morgan, United Way executive director.

A campaign-loaned executive in 1966, Wilcox joined the United Way staff in 1971 after a number of years in sales and retailing.

Since joining United Way he has been campaign director for the commerce and industry and construction divisions.

In his new post he will be responsible for United Way year 'round fund-raising and staff support to both the South County as well as the East County.

These two boards, mandated in United Way's reorganization plan adopted two years ago, will operate within policies of the United Way of San Diego County, but will be granted latitude in determining programs consistent with the differing problems, hopes and resources of their respective areas. Lemon Grove and Spring Valley residents will be included on the board of directors.

Meanwhile, a letter sent to the county board of supervisors asks that $84,000 be spent for development of the park. That sum represents one-fifth of the $423,000 recently earmarked by the county for expenditures in five county parks. Only $5,000 was allocated Spring Valley.

The letter also asks for continuing maintenance at the park, plus earmarking all dedication fees within the park district for the exclusive use of Spring Valley.

The letter, signed by Dick Olsen, president of the advisory board, and Ketell, said only $15,000 is needed to complete the park equipment. If maintenance funds are used, "we see no way to get this money," the letter said.

"There have been serious losses to our park fund," the missive continued. "It seems that between the budget department, the finance department, the park and recreation department and the park development department, our funds (over the years) have melted away."

"We understand we are the only district in the County that has formed a park and recreation tax district, and taxed ourselves for parks and recreation. We have taxed ourselves for over 11 years, and we believe we are entitled to Special Considerations," he letter said.

Artifacts Added To Maritime Display

A new exhibit, the Joe Gest collection of early Americana and artifacts, has recently been added to the rapidly expanding Maritime Museum, now headquartered on the Star of India.

Gest is a director of the Museum. His collection of antiques was begun by his father and has continued to grow down through the years.

The antiques on display represent the two generations of able brass, pewter and porcelaine collecting and include valuable "bleeding bowls" with accompanying "bleeding knives," surgical instruments dating from the Civil War period that include saws used for amputations, and a cannon sundial clock, which, when filled with gunpowder, would explode at a preset time, performing much the same function as an alarm clock.

Included in the many other items on display are iron slave collars and leg irons, many different types of sailor's knives, a pill rolling machine, ear trumpets, eyeglasses and an old fashioned ship's fire alarm made of wood whose clackety sound resembles a New Year's Eve noisemaker.

Gest donated the items to the Maritime Museum Association as his way of supporting the Association. A part of the donated collection was earmarked for auction, and $14,000 was raised in December to go toward the $500,000 needed to restore the ferryboat Berkeley as a floating exhibit place.

Both the Berkeley and the luxury steam yacht Medea moored alongside her are expected to be open to the public in the spring as part of the Maritime Museum complex, housing a new and larger collection of exhibits.

$50 Dinner Set as Craven's Fund-raiser

A $50-a-plate dinner on February 16 will honor Assemblyman Bill Craven of Oceanside.

The dinner will be at Town and County Convention Center with proceeds being used to help pay for the cost of Craven's re-election expenses this year.

Craven was elected in a special election last year over a field of 14 challengers.

Sponsors of the event say that reservations may be made by sending a check to "Bill Craven Dinner," Box 28283, San Diego, CA 92128.
